"Pink Slips" Are No Longer Required

The Los Angeles office of the collector of internal revenue today received a telegram from the commissioner of internal revenue stating that the publicity or "pink slip" provision of the Revenue Act of 1934 has been repealed, and that it is no longer necessary to file Forms 1094—the "pink slip"—with income tax returns. This repeal of the "pink slip" provision will undoubtedly be hailed with satisfaction by the taxpaying public.

A&P Holds Birthday Celebration Feting Five Years In California

Hundreds of Food Specials Offered During Entire Month of May; Company Is Big Buyer of California Products

"Winning of the West" is truly fictionalized in the story of A&P Food Stores blazed across the entire country, it is interesting to note that this great company, whose name has become so commonly known as just "A&P," was visualized in its entirety by the founder, with the opening of the first store over 75 years ago. "Our stores," he said, "shall extend from coast to coast."

body; P. O. Morse, 1180 West 49th street, Los Angeles, motorman; D. H. Brock, 2301 Effie street, Los Angeles, head brakeman; Robert J. Mills, 741 Sartori avenue; Robert Figueroa, age 14, 489 Sartori avenue, and Fred Baker, age 19, 2267 Sonoma avenue. The two boys were sitting on the lawn in front of the Sunset Court, and testified to having seen Johnson riding down the street parallel with the train. They did not see the actual impact, they stated. Mr. Mills, employee of the P. E. shops, stated that he saw Johnson swerve in front of the train which had already reached the reach. He was the first to cross the road after the impact. The train, composed of the motor and about 10 loaded cars, had been moving at a speed of about 12 to 15 miles an hour. It was brought to a stop with the motor about 72 feet from the crossing, the rear of the second car being just east of the paved portion of the intersection.

J. J. COONAN, general superintendent, Pacific Coast Division, A&P Food Stores.

At the conclusion of taking testimony the jury composed of L. B. Kelsey, William Mullin, J. DeWitt Van Derlip, W. H. Gilbert, William Diesel and C. C. Bener, brought in a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the train crew of the P. E. from blame.

Funeral services for the unfortunate lad were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Stone & Myers chapel, with John Cook, of Los Angeles, Christian Science reader officiating. Six of William's uncles acted as pall bearers. Interment was made at Inglewood Park cemetery. As a mark of respect to his parents, and mourning for the dead, the pupils of the Torrance high school were dismissed for the last period, in order that those of his young friends and school mates who wished might attend the last rites.

William was born October 15, 1919, in San Pedro. He leaves to mourn his untimely passing, his parents, A. W. and Juliette Johnson; and two younger brothers, Harland and Donald. The family, residents here for a number of years, have the sympathy of the entire community in their tragic loss.

Five years have passed since A&P's complete food service was introduced to the people of Southern California. The generous welcome accorded each new opening has been responsible for the company's rapid expansion. So complete has been this food service that the Pacific Coast Division, through the patronage of its thousands of California friends, has become recognized as one of the foremost divisions in the entire company.

In commenting on their fifth birthday celebration, J. J. Coonan, general superintendent, stated, "We know of no way more fitting to celebrate this momentous occasion than through a reciprocation of the friendships so generously given our many stores. The entire month of May has been set aside in the interest of California housewives. The greatest food sale ever attempted in California will be indulged during these next four weeks. Courteous service, quality foods and low prices have made possible the widespread services of A&P and these features, doubled in their magnitude, will be outstanding during this birthday sale.

Over 1,000 Californians are employed in the 110 stores constituting A&P's Pacific Coast Division. It has always been a time honored custom to employ local help exclusively, wherever possible, and the company's policy of bringing men up from their ranks has prompted a remarkable spirit of loyalty throughout the A&P Company.

In addition to the A&P stores in California, the local buyers of the company have a mighty job in supplying the 15,000 A&P stores throughout the United States with California grown products. A&P's purchases play no small part in the progress of our fair state; their expenditures exceeding the $55,000,000 mark annually. Everyone is invited to attend the Month of May Birthday Celebration at all A&P Food Stores, where local managers and clerks are fully prepared to serve you and your community.

Don't Try to Get Summer Tan All In One Day, Say Lifeguards

There are two classes of persons who should think twice lest they spoil the fun of their vacation days at the beach. In one of these are the "show off" and in the other—strange enough—are the blondes.

This is the consensus of the county lifeguards and local physicians. To the guards the "show off" is the thorn in the side of an otherwise orderly existence. To the physicians, blondes and sunburn are synonymous.

The "show off" is invariably one of the first to attract the eye of the lifeguard in his tower, for he is a potential hazard to the serenity of the beach and frequently one of the first to need the strong arm of the lifeguard.

With the crowds already flocking to the beaches, the lifeguards have prepared a list of don'ts for the bather.

DON'T be afraid to ask the lifeguard the condition of the water—"that is part of his job."

DON'T drink intoxicating beverages before going into the water. DON'T swim straight for Guam; you can swim just as far parallel with the beach and be safe in case of exhaustion or cramps.

DON'T trust yourself in deep water beyond the breakers with water wings, inner tubes and various types of floats. DON'T swim in unguarded areas. DON'T "show off" for the girl friend.

DON'T swim near piers, as there are always treacherous currents, barnacle piling, fish lines and many things dangerous to the bather.

DON'T over-estimate your ability as a swimmer. DON'T enter the water within one hour after eating. DON'T go to the aid of a lifeguard in a rescue.

DON'T yell or wave your arms when in the water, unless you are in need of assistance—and DON'T TRY TO GATHER A SUMMER TAN ALL IN ONE DAY.

Which is exactly the plea of Torrance physicians who are constantly called to administer to the over-enthusiastic bather who, too late, has discovered that a burn is easier to get than a tan. And above all, rural blondes should beware of an ambition to get a

First White Child Born In New Mexico Dies In Torrance

Mrs. Emma Agnes Wardwell, age 83, who has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Boyd Hudson, 707 Cota avenue, passed away Friday, May 3, after a brief illness. She was taken sick with a cold on Wednesday which developed into a bronchial affection to which she succumbed two days later. Mrs.

Wardwell, a widow, leaves two daughters, Mrs. Hudson and Mrs. Mary Newby, of Torrance, and one son, John Wardwell, of Gardena. Funeral services were held from Stone & Myers chapel on Monday morning at 10:30, Rev. John B. Speed officiating. Interment was made at Roosevelt Memorial Park.

Mrs. Wardwell's death closed a long eventful life, which in earlier years was filled with the colorful history of life in the pioneer days. She was the first white child born in what is now the state of New Mexico, the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. James Clifford. She was born at Fort Val Verde, in 1851. Her father, U. S. army officer, was afterwards one of General Gysse's S. Grant's bodyguards during the Civil war, but at the time of his daughter's birth had been assigned to Fort Val Verde, a frontier post, in charge of a company of soldiers on duty as protection to settlers and travelers against hostile Indians of that section.

Mrs. Wardwell was taken east when she was a small child and lived for some years in St. Louis and New Orleans. Her first husband married in New Orleans, was killed by Indians in New Mexico to which territory the young couple had moved, leaving her with an 18-months-old child. She later married Louis Clarence Wardwell, formerly a stage driver between Kansas City, Missouri, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, who had given up the transportation business and was engaged in business with his prospective bride's father, Capt. Clifford, in Santa Fe. He passed away several years ago.

Mrs. Wardwell's life in the frontier territory was eventful and thrilling with the terrors of Indian wars, encounters with hostile tribes on journeys by covered wagon across the plains, and all the other alarms of existence in pioneer days. Twenty-five years ago she and her husband came to California, and for several years past she has made her home in Torrance.
